Knopf. 1 Cloth(s), 2015. hard. Book Condition: New. An utterly charming tale from Caldecott Medal winner Roger Duvoisin and his wife Louise Fatio, originally published in 1957, A Doll for Marie fits perfectly on the shelf between Corduroy and The Velveteen Rabbit: "In the city of Paris there lived a doll who sighed from morning to night. She was born long ago, when our great-grandmothers lived." Elegantly dressed in faded red silk, with long lace pantalets and a plumed hat on her blond curls, this precious doll is also a very lonely one. She longs to be played with again "Oh, to have tea parties and to be read to!" just as young Marie longs to play with her, pressing her nose to the antique shop window every day and fondly waving. Superbly illustrated in ink and brush drawings with two-color accents, this book for readers 4 to 8 includes a removable miniature edition, to be shared with a favorite doll of your own. 26.
